MISSIONARY OF THE WEEK

FRANK DENISI MISSIONARY TO THE PHILIPPINES

I am a missionary to the Cebuano people of the Philippines. The Cebuano people are the people group of the Central and Southern Islands of the Philippines. Most mission work has been done in the Northern islands where the capital of Manila is located, and thus the Southern islands have been neglected. I have been in the Philippines since 2006 and have been working with my parents who are also church planters. I have learned the language, and am at a place in the Philippines that is in great need of missionaries.

Goals:

  - Parking Lots will be monitored during all services.
    - Security Team is in place every service.

JOHN 8: 32

When our son Xavier was a toddler, we took the family to the Monterey Bay Aquarium. As we entered the building, I pointed to a large sculpture suspended from the ceiling. "Look. A humpback whale." Xavier's eyes widened. "Enormous," he said. My husband turned to me. "How does he know that word?" "He must have heard us say it." I shrugged, amazed that our toddler had soaked up vocabulary we'd never intentionally taught him.

In Deut. 6, the Lord encouraged His people to be intentional about teaching younger generations to know and obey the Scriptures. As the Israelites increased in their knowledge of God, they and their dear children would be more likely to grow in reverence of Him and enjoy the rewards that come through knowing Him intimately, loving Him completely, and following Him obediently (vs. 2–5).

By intentionally saturating our hearts and our minds with Scripture (vs. 6), we will be better prepared to share God's love and truth with our children during our everyday activities (vs. 7). Leading by example, we can equip and encourage young people to recognize and respect the authority and relevance of God's unchanging truth (vs. 8–9).

As God's words flow naturally from our hearts and out of our mouths, we can leave a strong legacy of faith to be passed down from generation to generation (4:9).

THE WORDS WE TAKE IN DETERMINE THE WORDS WE SPEAK, LIVE BY, AND PASS ON TO THOSE AROUND US.
